ERIE TAKES OVER MARION SHOPS

Views of Havoc Wrought by Wind and Heavy Rains

Following months of rain and storm over a large part of the Mississippi river watershed, the great stream has gone to record heights, flooding huge areas in its middle and lower stretches. Man-power has been conscripted to strengthen dikes and other barriers. Top view shows the waters near the top of the sea wall at Cairo, Ill., where the flood waters of the Ohio join with those of the Mississippi, creating such a mass of water that the flow is the largest ever recorded in the history of any river. Official forecast was that the crest would be near the top of this sea wall—the water on the outside being higher than the portion of the city beyond. Lower view, taken 13 miles north of Cairo, gives an idea of the disaster. There is water as far as one can see, with only the tops of the houses and barns showing.

General view (top) of devastation wrought by tornado which swept through Rock Springs, Tex., killing 56 instantly and injuring more than 150. Lower photo shows all that remains of a house in the heart of what once was the residence district.

The front of Hanson's car was partly wrecked but the parked machine with which he collided, was not damaged.

A Chrysler coach driven by R. Haberman, 81 Main-st., and an Oldsmobile touring car, driven by O. R. Carey, 920 Sheridan-nd., figured in the other collision, which occurred near the corner of Kiersey and N. Main-st., shortly after 8:30 Sunday night.

Both machines were going north and the crash occurred when Carey started to turn into a driveway. The Haberman car struck Carey's machine, partly demolishing a running board and fender and damaging one of the front wheels.

One of our Silver Black Beauties.

An Opportunity To Engage in The Fur Farming Industry

The fur business is fundamentally sound and one of the oldest established in the world. In the beginning of the industry all furs were trapped in the wild. The forests furnished an abundance. Time has depleted this supply, hence it is becoming necessary to produce the supply in captivity or do without. Naturally the supply produced in captivity cannot be as large as formerly existed in the wild state, therefore fancy prices will be commanded for those raised in captivity.

Recognizing this economic condition the United States Department of Agriculture through its Bureau of Biological Survey established several years ago an experimental Fur Farm on which Silver Black Foxes have been raised for several years. This department has advised farmers of the possibilities of silver fox farming with its resulting large profits. They have also furnished actual ranchers with much valuable information as to care and feed.

The Ohio State Department of Agriculture through its Extension Bureau which is in charge of the Annual Farmers Week Program which is held in February each year, recognizing the growth, strength and possibilities of the industry in Ohio, and its relation to agriculture, placed a two day session of instruction in this industry on its program last February. This resulted in the greatest silver fox school ever held at any place. Men high in state and national agriculture and fur circles were among the lecturers.

Silver Fox Fur cannot be successfully imitated by the furriers. All attempts have been failures. It will therefore always stand as the aristocrat of all furs. It will always command correspondingly high prices. The wild supply is practically depleted. The future supply must be raised in captivity. This opens a large field for investment and actual production of these valuable animals. The experimental stage has passed. It is no longer an experiment. It is a fact that we can produce better silver foxes and silver fox furs in captivity than have come in the past from the wild.

Our home ranch founded in the summer of 1924 on the Harding Highway between Marion and Kenton is no longer an experiment. We know the possibilities of this industry. We have developed through several generations of breeding our famous "Wyandot" Strain of Silver Black Foxes and every animal must measure up to this high standard of perfection or is cast aside. Every Wyandot Silver Fox must measure up to the standard of the American National Fox Breeders Association, the registration organization and pass their inspectors and be registered by them. We do not keep or sell any unregistered foxes.

For those interested we have several plans whereby you may invest in one or more pair of our valuable Wyandot Silver Black Foxes and leave them on our ranch where we will care for them or you may remove them to a ranch of your own. Our supply is limited. They will be quickly sold so those interested should act quickly and send in the attached coupon.

A satisfied customer is the greatest asset of any business. We want our customers to be fully satisfied in every respect. Our services to our patrons is unlimited. We care for your animals, take off and prepare pelts, furnish material, plans and specifications for a new ranch, assist in the sale of your pups. In fact we want our customers to succeed and will assist them in any way to make an investment in our famous Wyandots a success.

Use this attached coupon now for further information, without obligation on your part. Let us explain this industry in detail.

Science Foresees Cheap Gold Through Experiment

Bureau of Standards Man Says It's Quite Possible To Change Base Metals

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, April 18—To say that science looks forward to a time when gold will be as plentiful and cheap as iron or lead or any other everyday metal that sells by the ton instead of the ounce, may seem a trifle too previous.

DR. PAUL R. HEYL

To say further that the Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has made up his mind what to do if such a thing happens would also be to anticipate somewhat.

But it's only a plain statement of fact to say that atomic experts like Prof. Paul Heyl of the government's bureau of standards, and other scientists, think it quite possible well presently be turning base metals into gold whenever we feel like it.

It's equally true that treasury officials have been asked, "Wouldn't it play the dickens with your department if gold were to become as common as pig iron?" and that they've answered, "It wouldn't bother us enough to be worth first page position in the newspapers."

Our scientist takes a lead atom, knocks a planet out of it, sets the rest of 'em whizzing in the right patterns and (behold!) he has a gold atom. All he has to do is to repeat this with a sufficient number of atoms, and his chunk of lead's transmuted into a chunk of gold. Nothing could be simpler.

(Professor Heyl undoubtedly would cry out loud at such an inaccurate, unscientific description, but it'll do for amateurs.)

SO far is this supposititious performance from being a mere crazy idea that there are reputable experimenters who claim to have accomplished it. Science isn't altogether sure of it yet, but it thinks maybe they did. It thinks maybe it can be done, even if they didn't. In short, first-class authorities of today accept "transmutation of metals" as within the bounds of possibility.

However, nobody—not even the experimenters who say they've done it—can suggest any method of changing a chunk, say, of lead into a chunk of gold except at an expense far greater than the golden nugget's value. Commercially, this certainty is a drawback.

YET a time may come when it can be done at a profit—at an enormous profit. Only, of course, it wouldn't stay enormous. Naturally the price of gold would slump in proportion to gold's availability.

A yellowback would represent only its value in old iron or some such thing. Then what would the government lose its paper money on?

Ask this question at the treasury and they refer you immediately to Actuary Joseph S. McCoy, because there's no imaginable treasury problem he hasn't worked out and isn't prepared to answer.

He had this one pat, without any hesitation. "The best thing to secure a country's currency on," he said, "is its property. You can't take the value out of real estate and crops and manufactures, by transmutation or any other process. That's what we'd base our money on—our resources."

"But wouldn't it cause no end of confusion?"

"The government could make the transfer just as easily," rejoined Actuary McCoy, "as it started us on the federal reserve system, which hardly caused a ripple."

Fools throw kisses; wise young men deliver them in person.

Absolute Separation of Church and State Voiced by Al Smith in Answer

Governor of New York Places Complete and Ringing Disavowal of Anything in His Catholicism That Would Interfere with Allegiance to United States Constitution

New York, April 18—A complete and ringing disavowal that there is anything in his Catholicism that would militate against his faithful adherence to the constitution was placed before the American public today by Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Admittedly the leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, and first American Catholic ever to enjoy the particular status.

In a remarkable open letter addressed to Charles C. Marshall, an Episcopalian, who had challenged him to reconcile certain principles of his Catholicism with his Americanism, Governor Smith declared his faith in the absolute separation of church and state in America, and summarized his politico-religious creed as follows:

"I recognize no power in the institution of my church to interfere with the operation of the Constitution of the United States or in the enforcement of the law of the land.

"I believe in absolute freedom of conscience for all men and in equality of all churches, all sects, and all beliefs before the law as a matter of right and not as a matter of favor.

Believe in Separation

"I believe in the absolute separation of church and state, and in the strict enforcement of the provision of the constitution that congress shall make no laws respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

"I believe that no tribunal of any church has any power to make any decree of any force in the law of the land, other than to establish the status of its communicants within its own church.

"I believe in the support of the public school as one of the cornerstones of American liberty.

"I believe in the right of every parent to choose whether his child shall be educated in the public school or in a religious school supported by those of his own faith.

"I believe in the non-interference of this country in the internal affairs of other nations and that we should stand steadfastly against such interference by whomsoever it is urged.

"I believe in the common brotherhood of man under the fatherhood of God.

Questioned by Marshall

"In this spirit I join with fellow Americans of all creeds in a fervent prayer that never again in this land will any public servant be challenged because of the faith in which he has tried to walk humbly with his God."

The Marshall letter, published in the April number of the Atlantic Monthly, challenged the governor bluntly on a number of pertinent issues affecting Roman Catholic principles and American political doctrine to wit:

(1) Marshall cited the claims of several Roman pontiffs to authority in civil matters where there was a conflict between church and state.

To this Governor Smith replied that he could not vision a conflict between church and state in America, the land of religious freedom. As a loyal Catholic, he said he recognized the supremacy of the pope in spiritual matters, but he quoted Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ireland, and Bishop England as denying the pope any voice whatsoever in American political affairs. In the event of a conflict, however, the governor said he would decide "as a Protestant would do—by the dictates of conscience."

For Catholics Alone

(2) Marshall quoted the Catholic Encyclopedia as stating that the Church "regards dogmatic intolerance not alone as her incontestable right, but her sacred privilege" and asked the governor to explain it.

Governor Smith replied that this referred to Catholics alone and meant that for Catholics alone the church recognizes no deviation from acceptance of its dogma. He denied that it meant that Catholics were to be "dogmatically intolerant of other people."

(3) Marshall challenged the Church's assumption of complete authority over all marriage and divorce, and cited Rome's annulment of the American marriage of the Duke of Marlborough and Consuelo Vanderbilt as an arrogant disregard of American laws by the Roman tribunal.

Governor Smith replied that Marshall's own church, the Episcopalian, did not recognize civil divorce, and asserted that in annulling the Marlborough marriage the Roman Church merely defined the status of the litigants as Catholic communicants, and not their status under American law.

Never Heard Claims

(4) Marshall cited the situation in Mexico, quoting William D. Guthrie, attorney for the Catholic hierarchy in America, as saying there are many precedents to support armed intervention by America in the present conflict between Church and state there. He asked Governor Smith to define his attitude in the Mexican question.

The governor replied that he did not favor the interference by Americans "in the internal affairs of other nations, and we should stand steadfastly against such interference by whomsoever it is urged."

(5) Marshall, citing the claims of some Roman pontiffs to supreme power in case of conflict between the Church and state, implied that if this were being taught in parochial schools, such teachings were violating the United States constitution.

Governor Smith replied: "I never heard of any such stuff being taught or of anybody who claimed it was."

Seeks Council

The governor's letter, a lengthy one, in which he went into some detail to explain his position, made it clear that, to his mind, there are Catholics and Catholics in America.

"I should be a poor American and a poor Catholic alike if I injected religious discussion into a political campaign. Therefore, I would ask you to accept this answer from me not as a candidate for any public office, but as an American citizen, honored with a high elective office, meeting a challenge to his patriotism and his intellectual integrity.

"Moreover, I call your attention to the fact that I am only a layman. The Atlantic Monthly describes you as 'an experienced attorney' who 'has made himself an authority upon canon law.' I am neither a lawyer nor a theologian. What knowledge of law I have was gained in course of my long experience in the legislature and as chief executive of New York state. I had no such opportunity to study theology.

"My first thought was to answer you with just the faith that is in me. But I knew instinctively that your conclusions could be logically proved false. It seemed right, therefore, to take counsel with some one schooled in the church law, from whom I learned what ever is hereafter set forth in definite answer to the theological questions you raise.

Cites Father Duffy

French republic—He was a Catholic chaplain of the almost wholly Catholic 186th Regiment in the world war—Father Francis P. Duffy, now in the military service of his own state.

"You seem to think," he said, "that Catholics must be all alike in mind and in heart, as though they had been poured into and taken out of the same mold."

"You have no more right to ask me to defend as a part of my faith every statement coming from a priest than I should have in asking you to accept as an article of your religion faith every statement coming from an episcopal bishop, or of your political faith every statement of a president of the United States."

HAIL LETTER AS EPOCHAL DOCUMENT

Washington, April 18—Gov. Al Smith's reply to the Marshall letter, in which he militantly asserted his belief in the separation of church and state and denied Rome any voice in civil government in this country, was characterized by capital politicians today as one of the most epochal documents in the entire political history of America.

By most of them, too, it was believed that Governor Smith, in boldly grasping a political porcupine of this character and handling it, has taken a long step on the road to the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

For the first time in American history, it was pointed out, an American Catholic aspirant for the presidency has recognized the political prejudice against his faith and has challenged it on the highest plane.

The haste caution that prevents men in public life from "missing in" a politico-religious controversy operated today to prevent widespread public comment in Washington on the Smith letter, but the bulk of the private comment was commendatory of the governor's frankness and courage. His friends in Washington hailed his declaration of principles as masterly; his bitter opponents were unconvinced and still critical, but the majority of commentators, irrespective of party, agreed that the governor has helped himself enormously in his quest for the presidency.

Latin-American Policy Hit by Writer in Law Review

Washington, April 18.—A savage attack on President Coolidge's Latin-American policy, particularly in Nicaragua, Mexico, Haiti and San Domingo, was made today by Prof. Albert H. Putney, former chief of the Near East division of the state department, in an article appearing in the National University Law Review.

Putney's article has "no right to use the armed forces of the United States in any foreign country to maintain American rights, actual or alleged, except for strictly defensive purposes in sudden emergencies, unless expressly authorized by congress."

NEW SHOVEL HEAD WILL MAKE RESIDENCE HERE

J. L. Ackerson, New York City, Arranging To Buy Home in Marion

J. L. Ackerson of New York City, who last week was elected president of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. in connection with the reorganization effected following purchase of the industry by W. A. Harriman & Co., will establish his residence in Marion in the near future.

This was definitely ascertained today when it was learned that Mr. Ackerson was in the city last Friday making preliminary negotiations for purchase of a home. At that time he stated that he would be unable to decide upon the choice of a home at an early date, but will establish his residence temporarily in apartments at Hotel Harding.

Mr. Ackerson's visit here Friday was unexpected, the stop having been made while he was en route from Chicago to New York City on a business trip and had no connection with the steam shovel company organization.

Mr. Ackerson is prominently identified with Harriman & Co., the New York City investment banking concern which holds a majority of stock in the Marion Steam Shovel Co., and is also an official of several other large eastern industrial and commercial concerns.

W. W. Weitz, Republican, present mayor, is contesting the effort of Robert M. Hrawley, Democrat, to succeed him. SUGGEST $19,000 AS POISONING CASE PAY

Sundries Claims Board Decides Course in O. S. U. Strichine Incident

Columbus, April 18.—The state sundries claims board today decided to recommend that the Ohio Legislature appropriate $19,000 in settlement of claims arising from the death of two students and serious injury of two others at Ohio State University in February, 1925, due to strichine poisoning.

As a result of distribution of strichine in capsules to students who applied to the erstwhile medical dispensary on the O. S. U. campus two years ago for capsuled quinine as treatment for colds, Charles Huls, Logan, and Louis Puskin, Canton, died, and Delbert Thompson, Canton, and Timothy McCarthy, were seriously injured.

The board today recommended payment by the state of $7,500 each to the administrators of the estates of Huls and Puskin, and payment of $2,500 to Thompson and $1,500 to McCarthy.

The sundries claims board consists of Attorney General E. C. Turner, State Auditor General E. Baker, Sen. Harry M. Carpenter, Steubenville, and Rep. R. D. Williamson, Xenia, chairman of the senate and house finance committees, respectively.

REED STRICKEN, TRIAL ADJOURNED 24 HOURS

Senator III with Acute Indigestion; Hurried to Detroit Hotel

Detroit, April 18.—A 24-hour adjournment was taken in the $1,000,000 Ford-Sapiro libel suit in federal court today because of the illness of Sen. James E. Reed, chief of Henry Ford's counsel.

Reed was stricken with acute indigestion on a train near Detroit as he returned from a week-end trip to Washington.

The senator was hurried to a hotel where physicians were called to attend him.

Counsel for Aaron Sapiro, so-called co-operative king, agreed to the adjournment.

Reed has conducted a cross-examination of Sapiro for the last two weeks.

murder of this type that a woman should be punished as drastically as a man.

An hour before the trial was to have been formally started this morning, the advance guard of 120 newspaper men, special writers, sub editors, psychologists, playwrights, preachers and criminologists who are to "cover" the case (now these assigned seats in the spacious, high-ceilinged courtroom.

The stage was all set and the curtain about to rise. Even David Belasco, the noted theatrical impresario, had been assigned one of the comparatively few seats left for the public.

In this courtroom will be unfolded the true story of what the district attorney declares to be a homicide as easily planned and cold-bloodedly carried out as any murder in this country within many score years.

Murder Renewed

Mrs. Snyder has been pictured as a respectable married woman, 33 years younger than her 46-year-old husband, who loved to dance, play cards, indulge in an occasional cocktail and have a good time. Her friends called her a "good fellow."

But she was married to a home-bred husband who had "settled down" and who bored her. She weaned of watching him putter around the house, tinker with the automobile, tend the garden and wind the clock. So she began to "run around" and stay out nights, leaving her nine-year-old daughter, Lorraine, at home with her mother.

Thus she met Gray, a young coquet salesman married to an estimable woman living in East Orange, N. J., a church worker and the father of a girl of ten. They finally became secret lovers and for three years carried on their affair. They took motor trips together and even enjoyed passionate adventures in the Snyder home.

May Last Month

On Saturday night, March 19, Mrs. Snyder, her husband and their daughter went to a party at a neighbor's in Queens village. She urged her husband to have plenty of drinks. He did and when they came home he sprawled across the bed in a semi-suspense. Gray, meanwhile, had somehow got into the house and, in the few hours of Sunday morning, the 20th he went into Snyder's room, accompanied by Mrs. Snyder, according to the police, and struck the sleeping husband with an iron window weight. Gray told the police that after he hit the man once he dropped the blood and that Mrs. Snyder

SHOOTING FRAY MARKS OPENING OF ELECTION

Weeks of Strenuous Campaigning Precedes Charleston, W. Va., Balloting

Charleston, W. Va., April 18.—The hottest municipal campaign in years ended in balloting here today, as a shooting affair in the notorious "triangle district" marked the beginning of the election.

Frank Jefferson, negro, shot Frank Bonhart, inflicting a slight scalp wound, but Bonhart returned to work after having his head bandaged.

CRIPPLED CHILD WORK DISCUSSED BY SPEAKER

Harry H. Howett, Secretary of International Society, Addresses Club

The Development of Means for the Care of Crippled Children in United States and Canada was the subject of a lecture given yesterday afternoon by Harry H. Howett, executive secretary of the International Society for Crippled Children, in an address to members of the Rotary Club at the regular monthly luncheon at the Harding Hotel today.

Mr. Howett said that the development of the care of crippled children in Ohio declaring that it was through the efforts of the Rotary Clubs of this state that the international movement for crippled was started.

Three bills introduced in the Ohio legislature at various times brought about the present system of care. Mr. Howett stated, The first bill provided for the health department to find the disabled children. The second bill gave the state welfare department the power to take care of the children. The third bill provided for the education of the crippled children.

Mr. Howett explained the great advantage of the present system over that which existed in various states before Ohio took charge of the situation. Children may now be cared for in their own homes with the state meeting a portion of the expenses if the parents or guardians are incompetent.

In conclusion Mr. Howett told how the movement for the care of crippled children has spread over the country, Ohio's system being put into effect in practically every state involved.

Electric Roads Holding Their Own.

An idea of the enormous business being done
by the electric railroads of the country may be had from the figures compiled by the American Electric Railroad association following a recent survey made by it of the business done by 215 of the electric roads of the land. The survey shows that the revenue passengers carried during 1926 numbered 9,651,619,556, an increase of 1.21 per cent. over the total of the revenue passengers carried by the same roads in 1925. These figures, amazingly large as they are, do not approach, of course, the business of all the country. To give an idea of the relative number of roads surveyed to the number of all the roads of the country, it may be said that of the sixty-nine electric roads of Ohio but twenty were included in the survey.
The twenty Ohio roads in question carried $48,531,721 passengers over half of whom were carried by the Cleveland railway, the total number of passengers carried by it being 275-831,721, which means an average of 275 street car rides for every man, woman and child in the city. It will be interesting to Marion people to know that the Columbus, Delaware and Marion Electric company stands tenth on the list of the twenty Ohio roads with a revenue passenger business of 2,625,901 fares.
All these figures, of course, cover passengers carried by electric lines, both street and interurban, and buses operated by such lines, the bus having become, relatively, as important an adjunct to electric lines as it is to steam.

In the past there has been expression of the fear that the bus line would drive the inter-
urban and the city street car lines out of business, but it is becoming apparent that so long as our lawmakers render fair treatment to the electric lines and prevent unfair competition
by bus lines there is little probability that this fear will be justified.

Despite the competition of the bus lines in many localities and despite the widespread use of the private automobile, the electric lines are, apparently, holding their own. It must be taken that people like to use the electric lines.

Has Great Advertising Possibilities

This city is to be the scene of a decidedly important gathering, early next month. Considering the advertising possibilities it will offer the local merchants, it should prove easily one of the most important gatherings held in Marion in many years. We refer to the thirty-first annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, the opening session of which will be held May 2.

At times, we are inclined to feel that many of us do not appreciate to the full how potential of good in a publicity way such gatherings as the coming convention really are.
As we understand it, some 600 club women are to come to this city next month. Now, were the delegates to the coming meeting to be men,
we could see little likelihood of resultant advertising of Marion as a shopping center. The shopping of men delegates would be limited
very largely to patronage of haberdasheries and cigar and drug stores. But with women, the case is entirely different. They are liable—
we will make it stronger than that; they are prone—to enter any kind of a store and price
at least, if they do not buy. There is never any telling what line of goods will appeal to a woman. They are attracted by this, that and the other. If the goods are right and the prices right, they may buy. But let us not consider the direct profit. Let us consider only the advertising phase of the thing. If the goods and prices are right, both will appear to the women. And they will think about them after they return to their homes. And they will tell others about them. There is hardly any limit to the advertising possibilities
of a convention of women, especially a convention of such women as make up the federated clubs of the state. Many a customer of Marion business houses became such this way.

Some such patrons have sent back for goods;
some have come in person. The natural inclination would be to assume that such patrons
come from cities in this section of the state
the size of, or smaller than Marion. Such is not altogether the case. Local merchants have told us that they have customers in Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus and Dayton, who come here
year after year to shop, who have, in turn,
have caused many others to become shoppers
in Marion.

It seems to us that somebody will be overlooking a good business proposition if our stores do not appear at their best, with especially attractive displays, both inside and outside. It seems to us that every effort should be made to make the coming convention
a memorable one to the visiting club women in the respects we have indicated, and that nothing should be overlooked which would have a tendency to make them friendly toward Marion as a shopping center.

England is considering the lowering of the voting age of women from thirty to twenty-one, which is as it should be. Women should have every legal right exercised by men. But if England labors under the fool conclusion that "equality of sexes in the right of franchise is going to purify politics," it has but to look at this country to realize that it has another
guess coming.

Out in Oakland, California, one "undercover" prohibition enforcement officer is dead,
one is dying and five are seriously ill as a result of drinking bootleg liquor. Why will these "under-cover" people deliberately drink stuff which is bound, sooner or later, to put them under ground?

Mr. McAdoo's friends say he will not be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, in 1928, and Senator Jim Reed has said that he is not a candidate. The spirit of renunciation acquired by some of our Democratic notables is simply amazing. It was not so long ago that just about every mother's son
of our Democratic friends looked upon himself
as potential presidential timber.

With tornadoes sweeping the South, the Mississippi valley inundated by the greatest flood in its history, earthquakes along the Pacific coast and two feet of snow in Colorado
and Wyoming, we have about concluded that Ohio isn't such a bad state in which to live,
after all.

alive to prepare them a la Americaine, and
urges that they should be placed in cold water,
which should be heated until the lobster becomes unconscious, before they are broken up.
Why wouldn't it save a lot of time and trouble
to chloroform 'em?

THE CAT: "I DARE YOU TO COME OUT."

Right Living Is Best.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
At least one-half the ills of the human family
arise from abuse or neglect of the digestive organs.
Constipation is the most frequent evidence of such disease.

Just because the bowels move rather freely once
a day, is no sure sign of the absence of constipation.
This movement may be a delayed one, the material expelled being waste which should have passed away two days before.

Lowered vitality, which may be the effect of wrong eating, late hours, worry or continued and excessive fatigue, may result in deficient activity in the muscle walls of the intestine. The general muscular tone is below par. Naturally the digestive and eliminative organs are less vigorous than they should be.

This state of affairs may account for the beginning of the constipation, but when the intestine fills up with undigested materials, fermentation takes place. With fermentation and decay, further complications are to be expected. Poisonous toxins develop and these are eager to attack the system and undermine the health.

Almost always an acute infection is founded on a constipated condition. If you are in prime health,
you are unlikely to "take" disease. Your powers
of resistance are high and you can snap your fingers
at sickness.

In dealing with constipation, the effect, we must think first of the causes for its presence. By better living, better hygiene standards and better choice
of food, constipation need not be feared. But its correction takes time.

To get rid of the dangerous accumulation in the lower bowels it may be necessary to take a cathartic or laxative. Needless to say, such treatment does not "cure" the constipation. All it does is to clear out that particular cargo of offensive material. But that is most desirable, particularly if you have a cold, sore throat, headache or other evidence of acute infection.

Sprays and gargles and pills and powders may give temporary relief to the acute trouble, but their effects will be far more satisfactory if the bowels
are emptied. There can be no doubt that a clogged intestine delays the healing of any disease.

Now, please do not get the idea that daily purging is good for you. It isn't. Nothing is more dangerous than frequent resort to cathartics and purgatives. Correct your eating and manner of living and you will need no medicine. Right living is vastly more important than all the medicine in the world.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

MRS. J. Q.—What could cause a child of eleven years to have pimple and blackheads?
A.—Perhaps the child has too much candy, and at meal-times the nourishing foods are neglected. Wash
the child's face with warm water, using a pure soap at least twice a day. Infected teeth might cause
this condition, as would diseased tonsils.

A. E. N. Q.—What is the cause of excessive perspiration?
A.—Tell me if I am underweight? I am seventeen years old and five feet four inches.

A.—This condition is due to nervousness caused by a run-down state of health. Build up your entire system by proper exercise and diet and you will benefit generally. For details send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

And you that feed yourselves with your descent,
What comes of all your visions and your fears?

Tethered the same dull webs of discontent.

Editorial Comment.

TORNADOES AND SUNSPOTS.

The tornado which laid waste Rock Springs is a somewhat disquieting portent. Although not unprecedented, it comes earlier in the spring than is normal for such storms, and it seems to have displayed unusual fury. Remembering that 1927 is to be a "sunspot year," one can not avoid suspicion that it may prove to be a "tornado year" also, the first herald of which has just played its part across the Texas stage. Tornadoes were described recently by Dr. W. J. Humphreys, of the United States
weather bureau, as "the most violent, least extensive and most sharply defined of all storms." These characters contrast them with the vast, but milder,
storms which meteorologists call cyclones, the great
air whirls hundreds of miles across which glide in succession over the United States like gigantic slowly-spinning pinwheels. Hence come the "lows"
of the weather map. Unlike these, the tornado is unmeasurable in yards of width, not miles. Its terrifying vortex of black cloud spins faster than any whirling dervish. The devastating forces of its center spare few among the works of nature and none of those of man.

About what causes these tornadoes the meteorologists confess ignorance. There seem to be relations with the movement of the large cyclonic
whirls; other relations with the atmospheric turbulence produced by contacts between cold air currents and warm ones. The sunspots probably have no direct effect, but may have important indirect
ones, just as their presence increases, it is probable,
the annual number of the oceanic cyclones which enroll call hurricanes in the Atlantic and typhoons
in the Pacific. Sunspots are signs, paradoxically enough, of an increase in the sun's heat, not of a decrease. The greater warming of the earth seems to stir our atmosphere more violently. Storms of many kinds are intenser and more numerous.

The variation in the number of sunspots from year
to year follows a well marked cycle of about eleven years, the cause of which is another of the scientific mysteries. Last year we approached one of the eleven-year maxima of this sunspot series. This summer we may expect still more numerous spots
and still intenser earthly storms. Repeated hurricane like those which descended last year on Florida, Cuba and the Bahamas are probable, but may spend their fury, as every one hopes they will,
on the open sea, not on the coasts. About tornadoes prophecy is less easy. The weather germs from which they grow are ill known and sunspots may not be prominent among them. The only certainty is that weather experts will know more about the problem in December than they do now. Nature is about to present us with a vast experiment. At our last previous opportunity, in 1917, everybody was busy with the war. In earlier "sunspot years" of 1906 and before, science knew too little, both of weather and of the sun, to use the opportunity to its full.—New York Herald-Tribune.

AN ALLY PROVES FAITHLESS.

At least one American intellectual now visiting Europe utters a groan of anguish. He has been wounded in the house of his friends. At home is a desperate battle waged by our intellectuals for the rescue of America's soul. Here are valiant efforts to inject into American materialism something of Europe's capacity for living on the higher plane.
And what happens?

Europe betrays the common cause by trying to make herself over on the crude American pattern.
Europeans do not know that American intellectuals
are fighting the very features of life that Europe is so eager to annul. Europe is copying our clothes and manners.

Here's a pretty how-dodo! Not since Ludendorff
was stabbed in the back by the weaklings at home
and so compelled to get out of French territory has there been such an act of treachery. If Europe had only had the wisdom and patience to wait, our intellectuals would have made over America nicely. At most it wouldn't have required more than a couple of hundred years.

As things are now, the task of the American intellectual is made immensely harder. With a man's soul job on his hands is the shape of America he must now take on Europe, and very soon will have to take on Asia as well. For there, too, the peoples are imitating the Occidental crudities of which America is the most horrid example.—New York Times.

A CASE IN POINT.

A man of several aliases recently caught by the police has confessed that he killed a woman in Pe-trot because he hoped that by confessing he might avoid extradition to Pennsylvania where he is wanted on two murder charges, specifically on charges that he killed his wife and his child, and where electrocutions follow convictions of such crime. As the prisoner himself put it, "If I go back there, they'll burn me up electrocution—I guess I would better tell you a murder I did here
and get off with life."

All of which is recommended for consideration by anybody who doubts whether killers are enemies of the death penalty for premeditated murder and dread it as they dread nothing else.—Detroit Free Press.

An Ohio preacher, speaking in Chicago, says:
"Because of sentimentalism there are many who oppose capital punishment which God has sanctioned."

Man keeps making God after his own image.
Thus he even blames God for his own mistakes.

What does it mean when the center of the world's interest rests among millions of people who are not white? All eyes are on great doings in the Far East. The white people of the world are outnumbered. The stirring of the races of the Orient is significant. It is mostly a white man's world today. What will it be in the far tomorrow?

A few years ago Chicago spent a million dollars for a thousand extra policemen. Not long ago that city voted $3,000,000 for a new jail and a new police station. Evidently Chicago has criminals and expects to have criminals to come.

Criminals come out of homes and communities that are not right, that need fixing. Perhaps more money spent now for education and
for improving the living conditions of people
would result in fewer millions for policemen
and jails later on.

Our navy department is watching the exploits of flirts from other countries. The Italians have won laurels. So have the English.
Let the United States give much attention to the development of flying for commercial purposes—and if war must come we will have an air fleet. In this way we may prepare for peace as well as war.

A bishop says this country is going to destruction because of its mad rush for wealth.
The rush for wealth is all right—the money
gets into the hands of those who have the vision and intelligence to spend it properly. Rockefeller, Sr. engaged in a rush for wealth, but he has used it in such a way that he becomes
one of the world's most useful citizens.

DR. ERNEST H. CHERRINGTON.

Ernest Hurst Cherrington was born at Hamden, Ohio, November 24, 1857. Since 1900 he has been the editor of a number of newspapers and one of the most active workers of the Anti-Saloon league. He is general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, general manager of the American Issue Publishing company and a member of the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches in America. In addition he holds many other secretariats and is a committeeman of many prohibition organizations. Cherrington is the author of books and pamphlets on the liquor question.

Cherrington sees remarkable progress being made in prohibition, holding that the moral and economic forces in most of the great countries are coming to consider seriously
the advantages of total abstinence. Naturally they are watching with keen interest the experiment in this country.

"There has been a remarkable development of prohibition sentiment in Germany which was made manifest in the recent vote in the Reichstag in favor of local option for certain districts. The Progressive-Liberals seem to be favorably disposed toward trying local option
and this would mean the entering wedge for stricter prohibitory enactments.

"Germany is the best prospect among European nations for an enforcement program that I know of. If that nation eventually comes to adopt the American experiment it probably will be because of the keen respect Germans have
for the economic laws which govern industry.

Norway, which recently repudiated probi-
tution enforcement, never really had prohibition
as Americans understand it. The laws were mainly against "hard liquor." On top of the dissatisfaction caused by the loose laws, pressure of an economic nature brought by France,
Portugal and Spain, which has wines and Portugal to sell, made it impossible, even for
the prohibition which existed to be enforced."

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS.

A Sunday-school superintendent out in Evanston, Illinois, decided that the right way
to teach a good moral lesson was to kinda act it out for the kids. By the way, that ain't such a bad idea is it? Seems to me like it might be taken up in a big way by Sunday-school superintendents all over the country, with pretty good results.

So this bird was named Johnson and he had a cherry tree in his back yard, as all the kids in town was know. Johnson was a pretty good enough cherries for his own table while the season was on, because every night the kids
would come and pick the fruit. But this time he said he'd save some of the fruit if he had to stay up all night for a week. He hired a bullock to watch the tree, and besides that he got a lot of rocks and throwed them at the kids that got by the dog. So, after three weeks of hard work he found out he had quite a few cherries, and he invited his Sunday-school to a cherry feast. He bought some cherries to fill out the bill, and he fed the kids cherry pie,
cherry dumplings and cherry tarts, besides raw
cherries in cream.

While the kids was eating the superintendent
gave a little moral talk.
"Well, now, boys," he says, "ain't this a lot better than breaking in and stealing the cherries?"

"Sure is," piped up a kid.
"And what is it," says the sup, "that makes it so much better when we eat something that we do not steal?"

The kids didn't say nothing for quite a spell.
Then a bright boy that was gobbling cherries
out of a dish says: "Cream an' sugar, I reckon."

NELLIE DOWNING turned and Prof. Elwell followed her. They went up in the elevator and then were taken to the ward where Jim Elwell was.

Jim Elwell was lying in bed, looking pale and weary.

Prof. Elwell stood by the bed, looking down at his son with a worried expression.

"Jim, how are you feeling today?"

"Not much better, father. I still feel weak and dizzy."

Prof. Elwell sighed and looked at his watch.

"It's time for your medicine. Take it now."

Jim took the medicine and swallowed it with a grimace.

"Thank you, father. I'll be all right now."

Prof. Elwell nodded and left the room.

Despondency Over Ill Health Given as Cause for Act

LaRue, April 18—Fred Appelfeller, 29, World War Veteran, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart with a .32-caliber automatic revolver in the barn at his home here yesterday morning. Death was instantaneous. Despondency over ill health is given as the cause of the suicide.

A note written by Mr. Appelfeller explaining that he was "perfectly sane" was found by Mrs. Appelfeller upon her return from Sunday School and church yesterday morning. "If I had hoped a German bullet would do this, but it didn't, so I must do it myself," the note read. Mr. Appelfeller was passed during his service overseas in the World War.

Mr. Appelfeller was employed as a rural mail carrier out of LaRue. He was born Sept. 19, 1897, near Byhalia and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Appelfeller of near Mt. Victory, who survive with the widow and one daughter, Dorothea Marian, aged five years. Two sisters, Mrs. Morris Spring, of near Williamsfield, and Mrs. Mary Laughtrey, of near Mt. Victory, and two brothers, Frank and Harry Appelfeller, of near Mt. Victory, also survive. Mrs. Appelfeller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tobey, of near LaRue.

Friends may view the body this afternoon and tonight and Tuesday until 12 o'clock. Private funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home, Rev. Grace Nettie, of Mt. Pleasant Church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Mr. Clutter, pastor of the Methodist Church, LaRue. EASTER SUNDAY FESTIVITY DAY AT MARYSVILLE

Marysville, April 18—Easter was a day of festivity in Marysville churches with special services by all the local pastors. Churches were lavishly decorated with Easter flowers and all the choirs featured special Easter music.

At the Methodist Church there was a sunrise service by the Epworth League at 7 a. m. The regular Sunday School service was held at 9:30 with a special Easter program and self-denial offering. The morning services held at 10:30 consisted of several Easter selections by the vested choir, baptism of children and adults and reception of members.

The Easter message was delivered by the pastor, Rev. C. C. Kennedy, on the topic, "Jesus, Our Resurrection." The night service consisted of "The King Eternal," a cantata, which was presented by the choir.

The auditorium of Trinity Lutheran Church was taxed to its capacity Sunday morning for the Easter service. A record attendance of 473 was also present at the Sunday School service preceding. The morning service was opened with an Easter cantata by the choir under the direction of Mr. John Bushman. This was followed with the regular service at which the pastor, Rev. A. W. Zell, delivered a special Easter sermon.

Easter services were held at the English Lutheran Church with special music and an appropriate sermon by the pastor, Rev. G. D. Keister. His sermon topic was "A Personal Message from Jesus."

Easter was a day of special services at the Presbyterian Church. At 6:30 a. m. the Christian Endeavor Society held a sunrise service, which was followed by breakfast in the church. Sunday School was held at 9:45.

The morning worship at 11 a. m. was featured by special Easter music. In addition to a solo by Bernard Anderson, the choir rendered two anthems: "Easter Morn" by Gaius, with violin obbligato by Miss Marion Middlesworth, and "At the Beginning of the Dawn" by Vincent, with solo part by Mrs. W. P. Reichter.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Holy Communion was observed, the sacrament of baptism administered and new members were received into the church. The choir sang "Now If Christ Be Preached," by Lansing.

Rev. William Moore, O. P., of Aquinas College, of Columbus, officiated at the morning services at the Catholic Church. There was High Mass and a celebration of the Holy Communion at 9 a. m. The offertory hymn, "Regina Coeli," was sung by the congregation.

Easter services were well attended at the Congregational Church. The choir rendered special music at both the morning and evening services. A special Easter sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. C. H. Couch, at both services.

MUSIC FEATURE OF SERVICES HELD AT GALION

Easter Observances Opened with Young People's Sunrise Prayer Meeting

Galion, April 18—Easter was fittingly observed by Galion churches yesterday when the most elaborate and well planned programs presented in recent years were given to appreciative audiences. The day's activities began with the annual Sunrise Prayer service of the young people of the city, held at the Presbyterian church and arranged by Miss Margaret Bradfield, member of the county C. L. board. The church auditorium was illuminated by means of a large electric cross and was lavishly decorated in the season's flowers. Special music and addresses by several of the attending ministers made the meeting one of unusual benefit.

Impressive vespers services were held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the First Reformed and Presbyterian churches. The Reformed vested choir of thirty voices sang the beautiful cantata, "The First Easter," under the direction of Mrs. Harry Budd. Kenneth Rensch was organist and solo parts were taken by Miss Naomi Tracht and Mrs. Lester Stevens.

"Victory Divine" was the title of the musical service at the Presbyterian church. Mrs. L. O. Morgan, organist, was also the director for the affair and Mrs. Donald Townsend, Glen Kerschner and Harry Sanderlin had the solo numbers.

Two other well given programs of music featured last night's religious activities. The choir of Peace Lutheran church gave a group of miscellaneous selections including anthems, solos, a group of songs by a woman's chorus and specially arranged numbers for piano and organ. Mrs. Rouben Pounder was organist and director and Theodore Schaefer played the piano solo.

Prof. R. R. Ehrhart directed the cantata, "The Greatest Love," which was given at First Lutheran church. Mrs. Frank Nichols, Miss Geraldine Wise, Fred Wilson and Lowell Ness took the solo parts and Edna Tracht was organist for the event with Kenneth Pfeiffer assisting at the piano.

APPROVAL IS GIVEN MANY PENDING BILLS

Decision on Measure Providing Half-Mill Direct Tax Unknown

Columbus, April 18—Governor Vinton, it was announced today, will sign the Roberts Bill which passed the present session of the Ohio Legislature, placing county commissioners on a salary basis.

The governor declared he had received requests to permit increases of salaries of public officials, but had received numerous pleas that he oppose such increases.

$120,000 Increase
It was estimated that the Roberts bill, if it became operative as law, would provide for a total increase of $120,000 annually in the salaries of county commissioners throughout Ohio.

The proposed increases to be based upon population and on tax duplicates. The governor indicated his intention of permitting the Jones Emergency Act, which has passed both the senate and house, to become a law without his signature. The Jones Bill is designed to afford immediate financial relief for school districts in order to eliminate threatened closing of many public schools throughout the state.

Under provisions of the Jones Bill, school boards may issue short time notes immediately for the purpose of borrowing, either from the State Teachers' Retirement Fund or from private financial institutions, funds sufficient to pay teachers salaries until the regular appropriation for these schools becomes available July 1 next.

Measures receiving the governor's approving signature today include:

Signs Bills.
By Herbert, permitting churches to transfer property to national governing boards by a majority vote of the congregation. Present law requires a two-thirds affirmative vote.

By Burnell, increasing pension paid to needy blind; by Morgan, repealing sections of obsolete and unconstitutional portions of the Ohio laws; Johnson, requiring county officers to give surety bonds instead of any type they desire; Walther, requiring drivers of vehicles transporting explosives, or inflammables, to stop at railroad crossings; Norton, appropriating $150,000 from the residue of the sesqui-centennial appropriation and from the state general revenue fund for construction of monuments in France and Belgium commemorating activities of the 37th Division during the World War; McKinley, providing that when a civil service employee's list is reduced from reasons other than "cause," the employee thus removed shall be the youngest in point of time of service; Myers, authorizing the Northwestern Ohio Gas Co. to lay a pipe line across property of the Toledo State hospital; Stevens, authorizing the city of Dayton to purchase more than a mile of the Miami and Erie canal in Dayton for the purpose of elevating railroad tracks; Ward, of Franklin, giving the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. a new right of way along the state fair grounds, Columbus, the state taking over the present right of way.

The governor, also, signed the Norine Bill, allowing boards of education to contract with art museums and other such institutions for the training of pupils.

Governor Donaher, it was stated, has until next Monday to pass upon the question of vetoing the Dodd Bill which authorizes collection this year of a half-mill direct state tax levy.

The governor did not indicate what action he will take concerning the Dodd Bill.

POLICE PLAN TO RELEASE MAN FROM PITTSBURGH

Investigation Shows Captive is Not Escaped Convict from State Penitentiary

Tony Kautz, 52, of Pittsburgh, held at the city prison here since Friday night, while police investigated the possibility of his being an escaped convict from the Ohio Penitentiary, will probably be released, Chief of Police Thompson stated today.

Investigation showed practically beyond all doubt that Kautz was not one of the fugitives, although he closely resembled one of the prisoners who escaped about a week ago, the chief says. Kautz had only one eye, which was the main mark of identification leading to his arrest.

Kautz was taken into custody about 10 o'clock Friday night near Center and Main-sts. and from the time of his arrest vigorously denied that he was connected with the penitentiary episode.

Yanks Set Pace in American League During First Week

ATHLETICS HOLD PRACTICE; TEAM IN FINE SHAPE

Marion Players Look Better Than Ever in Second Workout of Season

The Marion Athletics looked better than ever yesterday during their second workout of the season at Lincoln Park. Hitting was excellent and the boys made a great show at fielding in spite of being handicapped by the rough diamond.

Main and Reese had a tussle on the mound with Keller of Lima behind the bat. This trio will soon round into shape. Reese will probably be used in the outfield and take a place in the pitchers' box in case of an emergency. Main is likely to start the first game.

The infield lined up with Foster Buckland on third, Manager Bacon on second, Joe Conroy at first, and Riser at shortstop. A snappy fielding practice showed this group to be in good condition.

All the men looked better yesterday than in the first practice session and at the present rate will be ready to meet any and all comers after May 1. Rowan was the only man unable to get here yesterday but his weekly workouts with the N. Y. C. team at Bucyrus, keep him in the best of shape.

Manager Bacon announced today that the city team would practice with the Steam Shovel outfit at 5:45 Thursday night, on the Steam Shovel diamond. Another practice will be held next Saturday and then comes the regular Sunday session. With a few more workouts next week, the local outfit will be all set.

Deciding Tilts in National Bowling League Scheduled for "Y" Alleys Tonight

Motorcycles and Midland Mutuals To Roll Postponed Match; Mutuals Have Chance To Take Pennant; League Will Officially Close Sometime This Week

THE deciding match of the National Bowling League will be rolled tonight on the Y. M. C. A. alleys when the Midland Mutuals and Motorcycles tie up in a postponed series of three games.

While the Motorcycles have no chance to top the league or even take second place, they do have an opportunity to prevent the Mutuals from taking the pennant. To turn the trick, the Cyclones must win all three contests, a possible but highly improbable feat.

The Mutuals at present are leading the league in percentage, having 441 to the Drugs' 320. But the Bradley crew has completed its scheduled season of 81 games while the Mutuals have rolled only 81 contests. The Drugs have won 53 and lost 31 while at present the Mutuals have won 32 and lost only 29 games.

If they win only one game from the Motorcycles tonight, they will be tied for first place. If they win more than one, they will hold their present position and take the banner. Should they lose all three, Bradley's will automatically step into the leading berth and take the championship.

In the meantime the Motorcycles, who are now in third place, must watch their step or they will land in the fourth position before the post-season games are all bowled. The Cyclones have six more games, three with the Mutuals and three with Dugans before the National League is officially closed. They have rolled 78 contests to date and have won 40 and lost 38. Smart and Waddell are their closest opponents, having finished the season a week ago with an even break of 42 and 42 and an average of 500 for the year. Should the Cyclones win but two of the remaining six games, they will drop into a tie with Smart and Waddell. If they fail to win two, they will drop below that mark.

The Cyclones didn't look so good last Friday night when Bentz took two out of three games in a postponed match and incidentally stepped into a tie with the Buicks for last place. Up to that time, Bentz was alone in the lovely position.

Dugans are in fifth place and Richmans in sixth. Here's the standing:

Gehrig Has Big Day at Bat as Yanks Wallop Boston

NEW YORK, April 18.—Add famous last words—"I passed Ruth to get at Gehrig."

That's what any American League pitcher knows—winking the Babe in order to make Henry Gehrig the goat is like jumping out of the frying pan into the soup. Two Red Sox pitchers tried yesterday, and on each occasion Gehrig practically ruined the strategy by clouting a home run.

The Yankees' first baseman had quite a field day. He delivered two homers and a double, driving in six runs, and walloped a tremendous fly to center field which Flugstad of the Red Sox snared while hurdling the bleachers.

Yanks Win

The Yanks won the ball game, 14 to 2, making it five in a row. They now have a two-game edge on the field.

The Athletics, now hitting on all nine cylinders, swamped the Senators 13 to 2. Ty Cobb got four hits and Sammy Gray did a good deal of pitching.

Detroit finally completed a nine-inning game and made a good job of it, downing the Indians, 5 to 1. Gibson, the winning twirler, qualified for membership in the newly-formed association of slugging pitchers by contributing four hits.

White Sox Rally

For the second time this season the White Sox put on a sensational ninth inning rally, scoring nine runs and beating the Browns, 12 to 5. The Browns made eight (count 'em, eight) errors, while Peckinpaugh led the hitters with four singles.

In the National League the Pirates coasted into first place by trouncing the Cubs, 8 to 3, while the Giants were idle. Charley Root held the Pirates to one hit in six innings but couldn't stand the pace.

Grover Alexander, the Cardinal ace who was soundly beaten in his first start of the season, won a 2 to 1 decision from Pete Donohue, of the Red.

Frank Frisch kept up his hitting streak with three safe blows.

The astounding Braves routed Brooklyn again, 7 to 2. A triple by Fournier, Brooklyn cast-off, gave the Braves enough runs to win. The Robins celebrated their fifth straight defeat by making five errors.

EAST SIDE ACES LOSE FINAL GAME TO SHAW'S

Score of Contest Is 82 to 26; Aces Come Back in Last Half

Marion East Side Aces Saturday night lost the final game of the 1926-27 basketball season at Bucyrus, when they were nipped out, 28 to 26, by the Shaws of that city.

The Shaws were "loaded" with former Bucyrus High players, chief among which were Monnett, Lehr and Baker. Fisher, stellar guard for the Aces, was ill and unable to make the journey to Bucyrus with the Aces. Shott took his place.

The score at the half was 17 to 6 in favor of the Bucyrus crew but the Aces staged a great comeback in the final half and completely outplayed their opponents. They were within two points of victory when the final whistle blew.

Lingo, Paddon and Yazel led the scoring for the Aces. Each got three field goals and Yazel also received a free throw. Thorley Sargent made a bucket and Shultz scored a field goal and charity marker.

Ward and Monnett were the shining lights for Bucyrus. The Aces were inflicted with 15 personal fouls during the contest and Bucyrus received only four. The Shaws made 10 of their points in the first half via the free throw route.

RECREATIONAL BALL BANQUET TUESDAY NIGHT

George Gauthier, Ohio Wesleyan Athletic Director, To Be Main Speaker

Everything's set for the annual recreational ball banquet and the returns from the ticket sales are beginning to roll in to those in charge of the affair. The banquet is to be held at 7:30, Tuesday night, at First Reformed Church, S. Prospect.

All managers of various teams that expect to enter the league this season have been on the job selling tickets for the banquet, and those that have not yet reported the result of the sale, are to do so no later than tonight. Y. O. Rudolph, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., is in charge of the tickets.

George Gauthier, athletic director of Ohio Wesleyan University, is to be the main speaker. Mr. Gauthier is well-known in local athletic circles. Managers and captains of the teams that hope to enter the city leagues this season will be eligible to vote for members of a new commission during the banquet. A meeting of the commission may be called directly after the banquet to decide upon several of the most important affairs of the season.

Little is known about just what action will be taken on a proposed sixth league this season and no matters will be definitely settled until the new commission is elected and in power.

GALLON TO BE SCENE OF BASEBALL ACTIVITIES

Big Four District Team Will Use Heise Park as Home Diamond

Gallon, April 18.—Gallon is to see some real baseball this year and fans of the sport are enthusiastic over the plans for games which are scheduled far into the summer.

For several years baseball has suffered here and only the industrial teams making up the "Twilight League" schedule gave exhibitions worth witnessing. The high school has excluded baseball from its list of sports for a number of years because of insufficient time for games and team training.

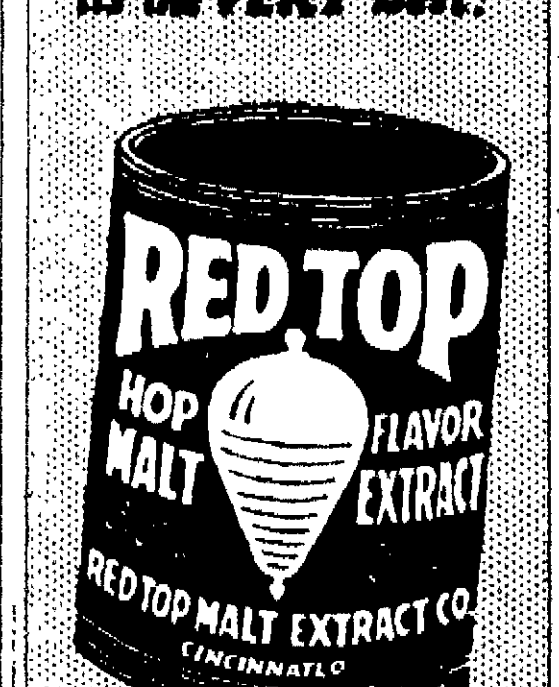

This year, however, Gallon will be a genuine baseball town if the Big Four men in the district are to be relied on. The Big Four has sponsored teams through many successful seasons and has also tried the plan of touring ball teams. Now a bigger and better league is to begin diamond activities and the Columbus district team which includes Gallon men is reputed to have one of the outstanding nines of the circuit.

The local ball ground at Heise Park has been selected as the home field for the district team because of its central location and the fine condition in which it has been kept. Further improvements have been made this spring and extensive repairs made on the large grand stand.

Every thing is reported in readiness or the game which Saturday will open the round of interesting contests. The team from Evansville, Ind., will offer the opposition for the initial demonstration and preparations for a huge crowd are being made.

Games are scheduled for nearly every week throughout the summer and teams from all over the country wherever the Big Four goes will be seen in battle with this sectional team aggregation which will attempt to win some of the handsome trophies offered.

Don't stand on your dignity; there's nothing in the world so slippery.

Score 52 Runs and 76 Hits in Six Games; Pittsburgh Pirates Lead in National

New York Yankees Have Not Lost Contest in Six Starts; Giants on Heels of Pirates in National League Race; Ohio Teams Slump into Second Division

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, April 18.—Deep thinking, it seems, still is to run a disconcerting second to deep hitting in the major leagues, in spite of the alleged decrease in the agility of the "circuit" ball. At least, I should so judge by the returns from the first week of the 1927 season, at hand today.

The first six days of the campaign find the New York Yankees out at the pace in the American League and how did they get there? Quite so; Wilmer wins the runless stepladder. They got there by scoring 52 runs and 76 hits in no more than six games, five of which they won by an ample majority, the other being tied.

In the National league, the Pittsburgh Pirates are front-running the situation with four victories in five starts. They also strong armed their way to the front, their record showing an average of almost six runs and more than ten hits per game. The Giants, in four games, can show an average of more than eight runs and 10 hits a game and, in consequence are only half game back of the Pirates.

Braves and Phillies

The Boston Braves and Phillies likewise are off to a higher rating than the intelligentsia decreed and again the punch is the answer. The Phils, in breaking even, have averaged five runs and 11 hits and the Braves slightly less in both departments, in winning four and losing two.

In fact, there is only a salient exception to the rule, the Philadelphia Athletics and even they have finally started after the leaders, after getting three defeats and a tie in their first four games with the Yankees. Pitching has been the Athletics' trouble to date; they have the men but the men haven't had the stuff, Sam Gray, in winning over the Senators yesterday, being the first of Mack's pitchers to start and finish the same game. Of course, the club will move with less friction when one or two changes are made; these seem to be inevitable, but at that, an outfit that uses 17 pitchers in six games can't expect to go anywhere with a burden like that.

Yanks and Athletics

The Athletics' attack, showing an average of 13 hits a game, is even a bit beyond that of the Yanks and Pirates but pitching and the defense in general has thrown the balance of power the other way. The Yanks haven't made an error in their last three games and their starting pitcher has finished in four of the six games played. The Pirates also have supplemented sound hitting with fine pitching, particularly from Kremer, and they have made only four errors in five games.

The Senators fattened on the deplorable Red Sox at the outset, thus concealing the principal Washington weakness at this time—bad pitching. Barring Hollis Thurston's efforts, the Washington staff has been very sad.

This is another instance of indifferent pitching ruining a lot of good hitting, for the Senators have averaged almost six runs a game. On less, the White Sox have managed to line up right behind the Senators in the standing with three victories in six games.

Cards, Reds and Indians

It remains, in fact, for the three surprises of the race to date—the Cards, Reds and Indians—to make the hitting argument stand up. The three of them are not. The Indians, getting only two runs a game, are well in the second division. Ditto the Reds, who have gained one decision

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

Yesterday was Sunday. I let Jubilee run out of the window and got some berries and went down and into the kitchen and took the salt and pepper and Jubilee went out to milk the cow and her dotter, and while she was setting up and holding the milk pail open waiting for me to give him a squirt the bunch dripped in, and Jubilee is as good as new.

Plenty said whilst he was in Mrs. Wagoner's refrigerator he got colder than he had ever been in his life, and he said that when she opened the door and saw him she screamed, and then she had to lift him out and put him in the stove and it was quite a while before he could unbend. If it was not for Jubilee I would like to go to the North Pole and set down with my back against it and freeze solid, and have someone find me in about 15 million years and thaw me out. I bet I would be surprised at the way the world had changed.

When my ant was washing me for Sunday school and I had my face all covered up on account of soap getting in my eyes she told me to watch out for my face might freeze that way, and when I asked if her face had frozen that way she stuck a soggy thumb in my eye. A fella can't trust a female!

My mother and my ant had new hats and they said for me to hurry from Sunday school to take care of Angabelle Lee because they were going to go to church. When we got to Sunday school all the teachers had new hats.

Our teacher had her coat and hat on the table and she kept looking at it, and when it came time for Nibs to tell what he knew about the lesson the

When he turned he stepped on her hat.

When my mother got home from church she told my father that the Sunday school teacher said I am a little here. I bet she would like to do of me what I do. I think a fella has a right to have a good time, but not to break anybody's heart having it. We spent the rest of the day at the stink factory but didn't get a rat.

Nothing happened today except school.

Peter's Adventures

A Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

The Wind Bears A Warning
Chipmunk was quite an all-of-a-sudden chap as any of the other folk of the field and forest whom the boy had met and without another word away as started. Daring down the fence post he frisked over the ground so fast that Peter, who had to crawl through the fence, found it altogether impossible to keep up with him. But Peter remembered Chipmunk's advice, "keep your eye on my tail!" So running after him as quickly as he could without getting out of breath he managed to keep Mr. Tuxins in sight. Suddenly Chipmunk halted and set self upright turning his head first this way then that. Peter never stopped, however, but hurried straight on and when he had come up to where his friend was the little red elf erect and although Peter could see his body shaking the brave little red elf remained in that position for almost a minute.

"Just as I thought," chattered Chipmunk at last. "Cutie Fox is on my trail, but he is stalking me from the wrong direction. The wind is bringing his scent to me instead of carrying it away. There is no mistaking it! Dear old wind. Many's the time it has proved my best friend! Follow me, boy, and run for your life. If Fox spies you he will not take time to see that you have but two legs instead of four. He will fall upon you. We have time to escape but no moments to waste. I am heading for my home. Fox is too big to pursue me through the door and once in the burrow we shall be safe. Were it Willy Wensel, now, I would fool him and go another way. Run as you never ran before."

All four feet left the ground and with a leap that carried him many feet Chipmunk was off on the home stretch, bounding over the ground at a speed that amazed the boy. Now Peter might have grown up to boy's size in the twinkling of an eye had he wished to, but he thought what a chance for an adventure was this, and he decided to remain small and to seek safety in the Chipmunk's home. As fast as he could tear, Peter raced after Chipmunk. Good gracious, where had the fellow gone! Ah, there he was on the other side of that fallen log. He must be near home. Why had he stopped? What was he saying?

"Hurry! Hurry! Two Legs. This way in! Cutie Fox is almost upon you!" Chipmunk cried his warning as shrilly as he could and frantically waved his bushy tail at Peter.

MELLON WOULD MAKE TREASURY JOBS LASTING

Secretary Sees Evils of Present Political Administration Turnover Policy

Washington, April 18.—A vital reorganization of the U. S. Treasury, and not merely important government departments, to put at least some of the executives on a permanent basis, is a political basis, is expected by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Under the present system, which is usually that the entire executive staff of the treasury passes out of office at the expiration of the term of the president, the government is forced to expend billions of dollars annually for the replacement of the staff. The suggestion was made by an official who recently retired from the treasury service that a permanent post office equivalent to the present system should be created.

Such official, under proposal, would be paid a sufficiently high salary to attract a man of outstanding business ability.

While the administration in power, through the secretary, would guide formation of the major policies, many financial questions would be decided by the undersecretary.

Recent administrations have been fortunate in getting the services of men of outstanding financial reputation. Secretary Andrew W. Mellon, himself one of the world's most influential bankers, has served as assistant to the Reparations Commission, and as international representative, now connected with the National City Bank of New York, and Ogden L. Mills, expert on tax matters, and the present undersecretary.

At the helm of the banking system during this period have been Vice President Charles Dawes, his brother Henry Dawes, and Joseph W. McKim, all men of outstanding financial ability.

At the present time the treasury service, although exacting in its requirements, offers no opportunity for a career.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR VACATION BIBLE WORK

Public Schools of City Will Be Available, Ministerial Association Told

Plans were discussed for the Daily Vacation Bible School at the meeting of members of the Marion County Ministerial Association this morning at the library. Rev. A. W. Swan, chairman of the committee, announced that the public schools of the city would be available for the school and also that Superintendent R. A. Garvin would assist again this year. Complete plans and endorsement of the work will be made at the next meeting of the association in two weeks.

Dr. U. S. Davis, chairman of the committee to arrange for the Sunday night sessions of the Chautauqua, announced that a number of plans were being discussed. He also reported a number of favorable and gratifying comments on the union Good Friday services held this year.

An interesting talk on "Value of Church Music," was given by Charles L. Collier, director of the choir, at the First Presbyterian Church. Meli Lewchanka, an Austrian evangelist, was in attendance at the meeting.

TRAFFIC TOLL

Two Die at Cleveland: Easter Travel Heavy

Cleveland, April 18.—Two persons are dead here today victims of what county authorities characterized as the heaviest Easter traffic in the history of Cuyahoga County. Figures submitted by county traffic officers, showed approximately 175,000 motor vehicles packed the highways during the day.

Stephen Almasy, 23, was killed when his automobile skidded and crashed into a street car. Frank Dehnert, 4, was struck by an automobile near his home and almost instantly killed.

DIES WHILE ATTENDING DAYTON EASTER RITES

Dayton, April 18.—Funeral arrangements are being made here today for Rudolph Meyer, 50, who dropped dead yesterday while attending the first interdenominational Easter service, at Victory Grove, south of here. Meyer with 20,000 others was attending the 5 a. m. services, at which invocation was led by Rev. Father B. F. Kuhlman, chaplain at the National Military Home.

Meyer's death was attributed to a heart attack.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS MURDER AT CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, April 18.—A murder mystery confronted police here today, following the finding of Francis Taylor, 38, with a fractured skull, in a garage Sunday. A blood-stained club with which he had been beaten was found nearby. Taylor died shortly after being taken to a hospital, without regaining consciousness.

LOANS up to $500

Here is a safe rule to follow—never make it a policy to loan or borrow from personal friends. There is danger of unpleasant complications.

Borrowing and loaning on a strictly business basis, however, is an entirely different matter; but at the same time there is no reason why a sincere spirit of friendliness should not prevail. It was for this combined purpose that the popular City Loan service was organized, and it assumes the role of a friend in need and with each and every loan extends to borrowers old-fashioned courtesy. Doubtless you have a number of personal friends who would gladly loan you the cash that you need to pay bills now falling due, but you hesitate to approach them because that would be embarrassing. But you need not feel no embarrassment in coming to the City Loan. Keep your personal friends friendly by borrowing from us.

CALL MONEY RATES DROP BACK TO FOUR PER CENT

General Increase in Investment Demand Evident in Stock Session

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
Railroad stocks, firm; industrial stocks, steady; domestic bonds, fairly steady; foreign bonds, reactionary; call money, 4 1/2 per cent; grain, steady; copper, steady; oil, weak; cotton, strong; rubber, steady; sugar, steady; pig iron, steady; foreign exchange, steady.

New York, April 18.—A decline in call money rates to 4 per cent, and a general increase in the investment demand for the better grade of dividend-paying industrial and railroad stocks stimulated active buying of stocks on a slightly advancing range of prices.

As in the bulk of last week's sessions, the oil stocks presented the only weak feature of the market, selling of the independent oil shares proceeding confidently by the bearish professionals as their "price war" over a larger territory. With crude oil down from 50 to 45 per cent from the prices prevailing in the first week of February, it was estimated that current earnings would in many cases be insufficient to cover dividend requirements for many of the well known companies.

Stockholders of the United States Steel Corp. heartily endorsed the proposal of a 40 per cent stock distribution, and voted favorably on the question of the annual meeting of the corporation in Hoboken. Favorable comments on current and prospective business conditions were made by the assembled dignitaries of the big corporation.

Leads Traders

Mrs. Irma Dell Eggleston
Thirty billions in Liberty bonds have been bought and sold by Mrs. Irma Dell Eggleston of New York during the 10 years of her association with a firm that specializes in United States government securities.

No to a mere "female of the species" goes the honor of leading all the bond traders in New York's financial district. The $30,000,000 represents almost twice the total amount of all Liberty bonds issued by the government. Mrs. Eggleston's largest total for a single day's trading was $38,000,000, and for a year, $3,000,000,000.

Nine Lives Are Saved by City Firemen But They All Belong to Ordinary Feline

NINE lives were saved by Marion firemen who were summoned to the scene of an impending tragedy near the intersection of E. Center and John-sts. shortly before 7 o'clock last night.

This feat was accomplished when a cat was rescued from the topmost branches of a maple tree, about 50 feet above ground, where it had been lodged since early Sunday morning.

It was just an ordinary feline of drab, grey coloring with absolutely no semblance of pedigree. A tramp cat, as far as could be ascertained, since no person living in the neighborhood knew where it belonged.

Nevertheless, after residents of the John and Center-sts. district tried for about 12 hours to coax the animal from its lofty perch and were unable to get any results,

they decided that services of the firemen were needed.

For nine lives to be endangered, even though the nine might belong entirely to a common cat of no apparent breeding or prestige, was no trifling matter.

Firemen from department No. 1 responded with their ladder truck and one of the men mounted to the top of the tree where the cat was hissing and trembling with fear and apprehension.

When the rescue work began, it was thought that the animal had become wedged in a fork of the tree branches. This surmise proved incorrect, however. When the fireman assigned to the rescue job drew near Tabbly, she drew up her back for a moment and then dashed down through the limbs and finally landed on the ground. After alighting safely, she dashed up John-st and disappeared.

It is believed that after mounting to the top of the tree Sunday morning—or possibly Saturday night, the animal had become frightened by the expanse of space below and was afraid to make the return trip.

The rescue was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators made up not only of persons living in the vicinity of Center and John-sts. but many motorists and pedestrians who stopped to view the unusual spectacle.

ASSESSMENT HEARING SCHEDULED BY BOARD

County Commissioners Holding Session on Gearhizer and Denzer-rd Improvement

Marion County commissioners this afternoon were conducting a hearing on assessments for the improvement of the Gearhizer and Denzer-rds in Richland Township.

According to the estimates of County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens the cost of improving 1.5 miles of the Gearhizer-rd will be $10,000 while the cost of improving 1.6 miles of the Denzer-rd will amount to $13,000.

Petitions for these two improvements were filed by land-owners along the two roads several months ago.

Of the 50,000 inventions filed at the United States patent office in Washington, about half of the applications are granted.

Caves near Pines, Ariz., contain springs of lime water in which an ordinary felt hat, if left for a few months, can be "petrified."

If reforms will wait long enough, nobody need die for them.
